Lovable Citizen Shocks His Friends By Committing Suicide

Found On Bed With a Bullet Through His Brain

This morning at 9:40 o'clock Mr. Allie McAttee, quiet and lovable citizen, aged about 55 years, shot himself through the head with a pistol at his home in East Second street.

He was a splendid character, was wealthy, single and resided with his sisters, Mrs. Ella Allen and Mrs. Carrie Pickett in their home in East Second street.

No cause is assigned for the shocking deed, but ill-health, Mr. McAttee having suffered intensely recently with erysipelas in his eyes, but had seemingly recovered.

No further particulars at hand. Only the pleasantest memories remind us of Allie McAttee.

COCHRAN HEADS CAMPAIGNERS

Maysville Man Chairman Republican State Body

Roy Wilhoit Succeeds Bullitt as Elector-At-Large

Hon. W. D. Cochran of Maysville was named as Chairman of the Republican State Campaign Committee at a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee at the Galt House, Louisville, Thursday.

He will name the four other members of the committee. Roy E. Wilhoit of Louisville, was elected to succeed W. Marshall Bullitt as elector from the State-at-large. Mr. Bullitt's recent appointment as Solicitor General of the United States making him ineligible to serve as elector. Members of an Advisory and Finance Committee, to aid the Campaign Committee, were named as follows:

First District, L. W. Keys, Mayfield; Second District, J. W. McCulloch, Owensboro; Third District, Colonel D. L. Motley, Bowling Green; Fourth District, Charles Blanford, Irvington; Fifth District, Colonel Andrew Cowan, Louisville; Sixth District, John J. Craig, Covington; Seventh District, R. C. Stoll, Lexington; Eighth District, George W. Welch, Danville; Ninth District, W. A. Gian, Ashland; Eleventh District, J. F. Bosworth, Middleboro; State-at-large, H. Bernheim, Louisville, and L. W. Bathurst, Mt. Vernon.

When the matter of naming a Campaign Committee was taken up, Mr. Ernst moved that Mr. Franks be selected as chairman. The latter declined to accept the honor, whereupon Mr. Scholl placed in nomination the name of Mr. Cochran, who was elected without a dissenting vote. Mr. Cochran was not present, but the committee said it would not entertain a possible refusal on his part to serve.

The committee, on motion of Mr. Garrett, decided to prepare a campaign document for distribution throughout the State, extolling the Taft administration and calling attention to the "splendid commercial prosperity" of the country.

Mismatched Couples

Nannie Neal has filed divorce proceedings in the Mason Circuit Court against Samuel Neal. They were married April 25th, 1908, and separated June 12th, 1912. Abandonment and cruel treatment is plaintiff's plea. She prays for absolute divorce and custody of her two children and for alimony in the sum of $500 and reasonably attorney fees.

Edward King, another unhappy dethroned king, has filed suit for divorce and custody of his two children, against Grace King. They were married in Aberdeen, O., November 20th, 1890. Plaintiff's petition recites a dreadful tale of woe since Mrs. King's joining the Holiness Band and having become sanctified. She refuses to cohabit with her spouse on the ground that it is sinful, so to do, hence he wants a divorce.

W. H. Taft. J. S. Sherman.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JAMES S. SHERMAN.

Its either the White house or the mad house for Teddy.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley the pure food expert declared when he left the government service that if it hadn't been for President Taft he would have been in the middle of a bad fix. And now the Doc has gone back on Taft and will support Wilson. President Taft seems to be the victim of a lot of very treacherous friends.

Both the Chicago and Baltimore National Conventions bore deep impression of the strength of the independent vote of the country, and in each of them there was in evidence the disposition of millions of voters in the United States to reject party platforms and partisan candidates unless they were in accord and harmony with the political views of themselves.

Party bonds never hung so loosely upon the electorate of the United States as they do to day.

Party names still has some hold upon the voters, but they retain but little of the attractive and repellent qualities which they possessed 50, 40, or even 20 years ago.

When millions of voters absented themselves from the polls as election statistics in recent years have disclosed they did do at state elections, that refusal to vote was an expression of disapproval of party policies, party candidates, or of both.

It was in itself a declaration of independence as to party allegiance, and rendered those voters subject to be rightly classed as independents.

It is this increasing independent vote which will decide the election next November, which will give victory to one or the other of the several parties in the field, and which will occupy during the next four years an exceptionally strong position in formulating national policies through its holding the balance of political power.

To read the various interviews given out by well-known public men as to the candidates and the parties since the Baltimore Convention is to be convinced of the potency of the independent vote in this country and how clearly political leaders recognize its strength and power.

Bitter partisanship has departed from political circles in the United States, and the people are finding their way to mass their forces to secure legislation and to have policies adopted which they approve of and desire, not by dividing into opposition camps, but by compelling the opposition camps to move to them.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Roosevelt is now for a radical tariff reduction. He would be for free trade outright if it would help land him in the White House.

The Democratic newspapers now place the Roosevelt copy "top of column next to reading matter." Anything is fair in love, war and politics, however.

One Cincinnati fan has gone insane because of the continued defeat of the home team. A sense of humor, which all fans should possess, would have saved him.—Milford Record.

If the New Jersey candidates popularity continues to grow the next three months as fast as it has for the last four days, it will be man's job to keep even the Fiji Islands from swinging into line for the Democratic ticket.
—Lexington Herald.

The Figies know just enough about to vote the Democratic ticket.

We heard a Maysville man say he would bet a new hat that McNamara the murderer of Jacob S. Keller at Lexington, would go free. If Keller's murderer had been a Negro, he would have been hung long ago. But its different in old Kentucky with a white sport with money and a pull.

Perhaps the simplest statesman of what a Tariff should do was made by Abraham Lincoln when, in advocating a Protective Tariff, he said: "But I do know this: If we buy our goods abroad the other country has our money and we have the goods. If we buy them at home we have both the money and goods." And our workingmen receive good wages in their manufacture.

Political Pickings

Chicago Tribune: For Sale—A magnificent collection of Democratic roosters. No reasonable offer refused. Address Colonel Waterson Louisville, Ky.

New York Herald: Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the noted chemist, announces he has quit the Republican party. Probably it couldn't stand the acid test.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Some men are born to trouble, some achieve trouble and some become members of President Taft's Cabinet.

Columbia State: Tom Marshall would never get a medal for pulchritude but when it comes to politics he can run like a rabbit.

Springfield Republican: Forget it, Champ. And remember that T. R. prayed you would be nominated.

New York World: If "Pop" prayed for Clark, for whom did Mr. Taft pray?

Charleston News and Courier: After a while we won't have any conventions. They'll nominate by mail.

Buffalo Enquirer: The Chicago convention has given a new significance to the initials T. R.—the revised interpretation being Taft Republican.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Is any true Republican ready to surrender the principles of Protective Tariff and sound currency to risk a Free-Trade and fifty-cent dollar era?

Historic Blackguards

By
Albert Payson Terhune

The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

Pedro the Cruel, the King Too Brutal for a Brutal Age

PEDRO THE CRUEL

A SEVEN-year-old boy, in 1350, cast aside his advisers and guardians (who had been placed in charge of him and of his realm during his minority) and declared himself his own master. The lad was Pedro I., king of the Spanish states of Castile and Leon. He is known to history as "Pedro the Cruel."

Many acts that would nowadays be regarded as barbarous cruelty were then looked upon as mere deeds of justice and necessity. It was an unbelievably brutal and cruel age. For a man in that century to win the title of "The Cruel" implied a monstrous character.

Pedro, as a mere boy, fell under the influence of one of the most beautiful, clever and unscrupulous women of all history. She was Maria de Padilla. It was she who prompted him to cast aside his counselors and to declare himself king. Her next step was to induce him to give her relatives the highest court offices. The crafty old prime minister, Albuquerque, had strengthened Maria's influence over Pedro in the hope of advancing his own interests. But Maria made Pedro dismiss Albuquerque from service. Courtiers who failed to pay her all sorts of extravagant compliments were put to death by the king's orders. A money lender who refused to advance money for her expenditures is said to have been boiled in oil.

When Pedro was twenty it was arranged that he should marry a gentle and lovely French princess, Blanche of Bourbon. Maria, fearing to lose her own power over the young king, hit on a truly devilish trick for making him hate his sweet young wife. Blanche gave Pedro a splendid jeweled girdle as a bridal gift. Maria, by a sleight-of-hand feat, stole the girdle and put in its place a poisonous snake. She then worked on Pedro's superstitions by telling him Blanche was a sorceress, and had sought to kill him by means of the "bewitched" girdle. In terror, Pedro sent his innocent wife to prison. (They had been married just three days.)

For this and for other acts of cruelty and misrule the people murmured. They took Blanche's part. So did Pedro's half-brother, Don Fadrique. Pedro assured them that he loved Blanche and would set her free. Instead, he put her to death. He invited Fadrique to the palace and went forth to greet him as the latter entered the palace courtyard. Then, at a signal from Pedro, Fadrique was stabbed to death by an assassin.

A second half-brother was disposed of by Pedro in like manner. So were many noblemen. At last, under a third half-brother, Henry of Trastamara, the nobles rebelled against Pedro. The pope excommunicated him for his series of black crimes. He was driven out of Spain by Henry and by the latter's allies, the "White Companies" (soldiers of fortune). Taking refuge in France, Pedro fell in with the "Black Prince," heir apparent of England, who was ravaging the French lands. By making certain glittering promises of reward Pedro induced the Black Prince to help him regain his throne. At the head of an English army they marched into Spain. There, in the fierce battle (Navarete, 1367), they beat Henry. Pedro was once more king.

He failed to keep any of the promises he had made, and the Black Prince left Spain in disgust. As soon as the dreaded English troops were gone the war broke out anew. Henry gained many victories. He could not wholly conquer the king. At last, in 1369, he induced Pedro to come to his tent for a peace conference.

Scarcely had the two half-brothers met in the tent than they flew at each other's throats like angry dogs. Henry stabbed Pedro with a dagger. But the blade broke off against the coat of mail the king wore under his cloak. Pedro then, by main force, caught Henry in his arms and hurled him to the ground. But one of Henry's followers tripped Pedro and sent him sprawling. Before the fallen king could scramble to his feet, Henry drove a sword through his throat.

Thus perished Pedro the Cruel in his thirty-sixth year. Henry seized the throne, put the slain monarch's two sons in a cage and starved them to death. Scoundrel though Pedro was, he had been loved by the common people. Many of them prospered under his reign, and a whimsical sense of fairness on his part had led them to nickname him "Pedro the Just."

TO WOMEN VOTERS

POINTS ABOUT SCHOOL ELECTION LAW WITH REFERENCE TO WOMEN VOTING.

Important Information That Every Voter and Woman Should Read—How and When to Vote—Eligibility and Requirements.

The law grading school suffrage to Kentucky women went into effect on the 12th of June. Women who are able to read and write are now eligible to vote in the August and November elections for school officials and upon school questions, and are eligible to hold any office pertaining to the management of the schools, except those otherwise prescribed by the constitution.

Both in cities and in rural districts, women from all parts of the state seem most anxious to secure accurate information concerning the laws governing school elections. To meet this demand the Education Department of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs has prepared a brief circular on a few of the most important election laws, and is making an attempt to have the circular distributed all over Kentucky this summer.

The circular is as follows:

Points About School Election Laws For Women Using the School Suffrage in Rural Districts.

WHEN AND WHERE TO VOTE.

Vote the first Saturday afternoon in August from 1 until 5 o'clock at the school house in each sub-district, in which the term of the trustee expires, this year. The officers of election are chosen by the voters at the opening of the polls. (This does not apply to graded common school elections.)

Those Eligible to the Office of School Trustee.

Any woman who is over twenty-one years of age and has been a resident of the district for sixty days is eligible to the office of school trustee, provided she is able to read and write, as shown by a certificate of five responsible citizens of the sub-district.

The Question of Local Taxation.

On the first Saturday in August, also, many sub-districts will vote on the question whether or not a special local school tax is to be levied. Such a question can not be voted on unless fifteen days' notice has been given by written or printed handbills posted in at least five of the most public places in the sub-district.

Women in rural districts do not register.

County Superintendents are not elected until November, 1913.

Important Points About School Election Laws For Women Using the School Suffrage in Cities of the Second, Third, and Fourth Classes.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

In Second-Class cities the School Board consists of five members elected from the city at large for a term of four years. In November, 1912, all five members are to be elected, two members for two years, and three members for four years.

In Third and Fourth-Class cities the School Board consists of two members from each ward, elected by the city at large for four years. In November, 1913, one member is to be elected in each ward in which the term expires.

Eligibility to School Board.

In Second-Class cities, women, twenty-four years of age, residents of the city, who have been citizens of the United States for three years and who are able to read and write, are eligible to the School Board.

In Third-Class cities, women, twenty-four years of age, citizens of Kentucky, residents in the city for two years, the last year thereof in the ward, who are freeholders in the city, and who are able to read and write, are eligible to the School Board.

In Fourth-Class cities, women who are qualified voters (see below), who have resided in the ward for six months, and who are able to read and write, are eligible to the School Board.

When to Vote.

Vote by secret ballot at the regular November election or on other days, if the County Court so orders.

Register on the first Tuesday in October, any time from 6 a. m. until 9 p. m., or on such other days as the City Council may by ordinance prescribe.

No person may vote without presenting a certificate of registration. A lost certificate may be replaced by making affidavit before the County Clerk and paying a fee of fifty cents.

Who May Vote.

All women, twenty-one years of age, citizens of the United States, residents of the state one year, of the county six months, and of the precinct sixty days, and who are able to read and write, are qualified voters at all elections of school trustees and other officers required to be elected by the people and upon all school questions submitted to a vote of the people.

(Ky. Constitution, Sec. 145, Session Acts, 1912.)

The Big "Nyberg Six" Arrives

Covered with a liberal coat of dust and dirt, the big Nyberg Six, acting as advance advertising car for the Indiana Four States tour, pushed her nose into the city limits yesterday. This car left Indianapolis Tuesday, July 24, to blaze the trail with posters, newspaper ads and circulars for the coming of the regular tour which leaves Indianapolis, July 29th and arrives here July 23rd. The Nyberg carries as human freight, Mr. Arthur Burrell of Indianapolis, who handles the advertising of the tour and Mr. E. E. Arbuckle of the Nyberg Company, who is driving and representing the Nyberg interests. The real burden that the car bears, however, is in the shape of huge bundles of display posters, and hundreds of pounds of metal plate matter for the newspapers. Despite this load, Mr. Burrell and Mr. Arbuckle report that the car is holding nobly to the task. Pushed over all kinds of roads, in all kinds of weather, the Nyberg is responsible to all this imposition with an ever cheerful hum of its motor.

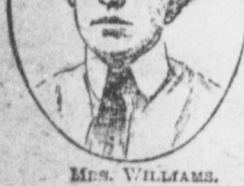

As Mr. Nyberg said before sending the car on this trip: "I am glad to have this opportunity as it will show what the purchaser of a Nyberg car may expect in speed, power and road endurance—far better than regular automobile racing or touring."

Mr. Arbuckle of the Nyberg Company, let slip some of the plans of his company for the tour. He said that his concern had arranged to have a four octave pipe organ on the big Nyberg too and a half track which is to be in the tour. There will be a musician along who will play the sweetest of tunes to entertain the people along the way and to accompany the quartet of singers who will be with the tourists.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make-up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this flimsy mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, headache, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.

Mrs. Williams

Mrs. G. H. Williams, of Lynchburg, Va., wrote: "It is six years since my health began to fail. I had female trouble and all the doctors (I employed three) said I would die. I was not able to do my work, had to hire someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle until I found it had done me good. I took, in all, five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my household work, and have gained fourteen pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It is the only medicine on earth."

WOMEN PURLOIN

RAILROAD'S GOODS

Southern Pacific Removes Towels

From Lavatories—Female Passengers Stole $21,120

Worth a Year

At San Francisco the Southern Pacific Company has discovered that women will steal. After striving for years to woo its patrons of the gentler sex by installing on its boats and cars all the necessities, if not luxuries, of the home, the corporation—like many and many a deep thought disciple of Father Adam—has found out that the more one attempts to fathom the wiles and complexities of feminine nature the more confusion results.

Because of this confusion every ladies' dressing and wash room on all the railroads, ferryboats and cars has been stripped of towels and hereafter women travelers will forego the refreshment of wiping the soot or grime or salt water spray from their faces with soft, mussy linen, unless they have exercised the forethought to beforehand provide themselves.

Towels by the piece, the dozen, the gross have disappeared with the greatest rapidity from women's lavatories on the ferries and railroad cars. As fast as the porters would place them upon the roller and leave the place, some woman traveler would be sure to stick her sassy and wet face through the door and berate the railroad company for not providing towels within.

"But I just put some new ones in there," the porter has protested a million times, say the railroad officials.

"That doesn't make any difference, there's none here now," the wet-faced traveler would snap.

And so the attention of the officials higher up was called to the towel vanishing. At the same time the order went down the line to see just how much such an insignificant item as towels for the women's washrooms was costing the company.

Back came the reply: $21,120 a year—$1,800 a month—$420 a week—$60 a day $2.50 an hour—nearly 10 cents a minute!

"Well, well," said the men in control of the railroad's finances, "this is pretty steep; $21,120 a year for towels. And the women are stealing them, too. Well, well! If this be gratitude we'll make the most of it. Call it every towel. Let 'em use handkerchiefs after this, if that's the way they're going to treat us."

As so general Superintendent James M. Davis sent forth the order calling in all the towels and by nightfall there wasn't a yard of linen decorating any of the lavatories.

But this isn't all that the railroad has discovered about the kleptomaniacal ability of women travelers. It has discovered that the stolen silverware from its dining rooms will amount to fully as much as the towels if not more, and it is not improbable that the extra quality of silver now adorning the diners will be called into the treasury and powder or nickel table utensils substituted therefor.

And there's a little more the railroad has found out about women, too. It has discovered that the majority of women travelers are as considerate of their sisters as a hen would be a worm in the early morning. For that reason all locks on women's dressing rooms on cars and ferries have been removed by an official.

"Because they spend too much time behind a locked door, primping and powdering. One woman will go into the dressing room about an hour before arriving at her destination, spend an hour decorating her face and getting a polish and then emerge as fresh and radiant as a new-blown rose, while a score or more will scramble about the door to see who'll be the next to get in and get an opportunity of using the mirror."

The practice caused so much inconvenience among women travelers in general that we have had to order all locks removed from the door. Henceforth if a woman wants to spend an hour with her powder puff the others will not be kept waiting on the outside.

As for the towels, said the same official, "the women stole not only the towels but the towel racks as well. When we put rollers on cars and boats they took the rollers. Then we padlocked the rollers and thought we had them guessing. But we didn't. They left the rollers, but left the towel and got them off that way."

The same official is responsible for the statement that the Southern Pacific's loss through women thieves will annually amount to about $100,000. "And it's getting higher and higher every year," he said. "There'll be more orders following that of the towels in a short time."

Happily that lasts is acquired on the installment plan.

If there is no marrying in heaven, what will the girl angles do for chaperon?

Urey Woodson, retiring Secretary of the National Democratic Committee, arrived in Chicago to arrange for the meeting of the committee Monday.

Millionaires Held Prisoners an Hour

NEW YORK.—For nearly an hour the other day J. P. Morgan Jr. and Robert Bacon, former ambassador to France, were held prisoners on the thirty-first floor of the Bankers' Trust building.

It was nearly luncheon time when Mr. Morgan and Mr. Bacon tuned and fussed in the elaborate suite on the thirty-first floor of the Bankers' Trust building which has been set aside for J. P. Morgan Sr. for holding secret conferences.

Mr. Morgan went up to the thirty-first floor for a conference with Mr. Bacon. First they took an express elevator to the twenty-ninth floor. An auxiliary runs up to the private suite, but it was broken, so the two men walked up.

They then turned the knob of the door which leads to the suite, slammed it and proceeded to get down to business. The conference did not last long and at its conclusion Mr. Morgan went to the door.

There was no knob on the inside. A steel bar ran in from the outside knob, but it was so short that it couldn't be turned.

When Mr. Morgan saw the bar he gazed blankly at Mr. Bacon and Mr. Bacon gazed blankly at Mr. Morgan. "Jailed!" exclaimed Mr. Bacon. "Mr. Morgan fished a penknife from his pocket and tried to loosen the screw which held the steel bar. He broke the blade of the knife."

"There ought to be some way out of this," the financier said, after he had worked at the bar until the perspiration stood on his brow. Then he looked about and discovered an automatic fire alarm.

The breaking of a glass cover on the alarm ought to have brought firemen, but the alarm was not in working order, and the glass was broken to no purpose.

After they had waited and waited, with no signs of firemen, they set to work at the door again. Mr. Bacon used his pocket knife this time and, after much laborious effort, managed to loosen the screw and shove the steel bar out of its groove.

Then the handle of the knife was inserted into the groove and it opened the door. Mr. Morgan will probably take a fire axe with him when he again holds a conference in the private suite.

Rebel and Federal Meet After Battle

KANSAS CITY.—A message telling how Tracy Richardson, a Kansas City boy, met the Mexican federal soldier who fired the bullet that wounded him at the battle of Villa Lopez, was received the other day from Addison Hughes, a correspondent with the rebel army of General Orozco. The dispatch, which is dated from Jimenez, Chihuahua, Mexico, reads as follows:

This morning a wounded federal was laid on an adjoining cot. The federal prisoner was moaning. Richardson awoke, peered through the dim candle light and said in Spanish: "Hello, are you badly hurt?" "Pretty badly," answered the man. "Federal or rebel?" queried Richardson.

"Federal," replied the other. "And you?" "Rebel," said Richardson. "I've a bullet through my body from a federal gun. I wish I had the man here who topped me over."

"What were you doing when you fell?" "Working a machine gun."

"By the adobe house to the right of the church?" queried the federal. "That was the position. How did you know?" Richardson asked. "How did I know," the federal asked. "Well, I guess I'm the hombre who got you. After I located you, 'Federal or rebel?'" queried Richardson.

"Federal," replied the other. "And you?"

"Rebel," said Richardson. "I've a bullet through my body from a federal gun. I wish I had the man here who topped me over."

some one of the rebels got me twice, once through the head and once through the stomach. It's all over with me."

"I'm practically well," said Richardson. "I'm sorry, old man, I'm sorry." He reached over and grasped the federal's hand. "Brace up and get well." Then he lay back and went to sleep.

When Richardson awakened the sun was up. He turned toward the federal and greeted him: "Buenos dias."

There was no reply. The federal was dead.

Richardson, who, with a machine gun, had held a dangerous position, single-handed, against the federalists at Villa Rose, was found after the battle, crawling toward the town, a bullet hole in his chest. He has been called the hero of Jimenez.

Richardson is 23 years old. His father, the late A. R. Richardson, was a well-known contractor in Kansas City. His mother now is living in Lamar, Mo.

Two Utah Girls Hold Up a Stag Car

SALT LAKE CITY.—Two unmarried young women, masked and heavily armed, robbed the stag car on the Shriners' special train at 2 o'clock the other morning a few minutes after the train pulled out at Salt Lake City. Several shots from revolvers were fired at each entrance to the car and fifteen badly frightened men quailed on the inside began a mad scramble to find their revolvers and to conceal their purses. Their revolvers, however, had been taken from the car while they were up town celebrating. As the men made a dash to get out of the car they were met at the doors with threats and a liberal display of revolvers.

"We are not looking for money. We are looking for bachelors," the two women explained.

Dr. L. A. Corwin of Goffs, Kan., and A. L. Swearingen of Kansas City, Kan., the only two bachelors on the car, pleaded, "Save us, men. It's leap year and we are in Utah, too."

"Come with us," the two train robbers demanded. The two bachelors were led to the observation car, where several of the unmarried young women were assembled. Dr. J. F. Hereford, the official auctioneer, mounted a box. He placed his hands on Doctor Corwin's shoulder.

"This is to be a bargain day in bachelors, young women," Doctor Hereford explained. "This handsome noble has a kiss as sweet as the perfume of any orange blossom. I guarantee he can weather the storm of the roughest marital sea as he crossed successfully the hot sands of the desert to the mystic shrine. It's true he never paid grocery bills and probably never will. How much am I bid?"

To the disappointment of the two bachelors, there was not a bid. The two bachelors, heart-broken and dejected, were placed in seclusion on the train.

The escape of ten families from death in their demolished houses was marvelous. They were carried along with the flying timbers and rolled over and over in the wreckage. Some were found clamped as each other's arms several hundred feet from where their homes had stood.

The path of the cyclone was about 300 yards wide. Those who saw the approach of the funnel-shaped cloud in time were able to save themselves by running to one side or the other of the path.

Cyclone a "Scenic Railway" for Horse

ST. LOUIS.—As the shock caused by the appalling loss of life from the recent cyclone in southern Illinois disappears, people are beginning to remember the strange things it did.

As the twister swept on its course about a half a mile from Dale it playfully picked up a dwelling belonging to Isaac Harwood and set it down beside the foundation, performing the feat so neatly that it did not stop the family clock or jar vases off of shelves.

A horse belonging to a farmer named Erby, living near Dale, was tracked for some distance by the places where its feet occasionally hit the ground. It finally was found flattened against a tree and partly wrapped around it.

The cyclone in and around Williamsville was more destructive than at Dale and equally freakish. Approaching the town it bounced over the ground like a ball, tearing holes in the earth where it struck. In the section of the town where the lives of

"I deeply regret that I did not know of your medicine long before I did. Friends often speak of the wonderful change in my health, and I tell them that your medicine did it." — Mrs. J. W. STANLEY, Cheneyville, La.

Distressing Case of Mrs. M. Gary, Chicago, Ill. — "I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for backache and it has certainly made a new woman of me. After my first baby was born I was left a perfect wreck. I was so weak I could hardly do my household duties and suffered with an awful backache. But since I have used your Compound the pains in my back have left me and I am strong again.

"My mother used it also through Change of Life and speaks very highly of it. You can use this letter any way you wish. I think it is only fair for one who has suffered as much as I, to let others know of your great remedy." — Mrs. M. GARY, 2958 N. Ridgeway Ave., Chicago, Ill.

CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN

Kehoe, Young and Vansant Mentioned by Democrats

Democrats over Kentucky are already figuring on who will be the Chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee that will have charge of the fight in Kentucky. Singularly enough the name of former Congressman James N. Kehoe of Maysville is frequently mentioned in this connection, and if it shows which way the wind blows his selection is almost probable. Another name mentioned in connection with the campaign chairmanship is that of Judge Allie W. Young of Morehead. Judge Young has served as State Campaign Chairman. Col. R. H. Vansant of Ashland, present State Chairman, is also suggested.

ONLY FIVE YEARS

Given McNamara and Lexington Citizens Are Indignant Over Verdict

This Morning's Lexington Herald.

Following the verdict rendered late Friday in the McNamara murder case, which was a period of five years at labor in the Penitentiary, for the killing of Jacob S. Keller, a strong undercurrent of indignation prevailed, and many of the leading citizens of the city and county were heard to condemn in unmeasured terms, the failure of the jury properly to punish the slayer of Mr. Keller.

Those who so vehemently condemned the action of the jury, had no criticism to make of the officers of the court, judge, prosecuting attorney or sheriff. They assert that the evidence was plain, convincing and direct and that the punishment was not commensurate with the crime. They argued that the verdict was a practical acquittal of the slayer of one of the best citizens of Lexington and was an outrage against society, law and order.

No formal call was issued last night for the meeting in question, but may be made today.

There were a total of 43,000 motor vehicles registered in Ohio by the State Automobile Department during the first four months of 1912.
